

- Bladder cancer Be aware of any blood in your urine.

- Be aware of a cough lasting more than 3 weeks.
- Be aware of coughing up blood.
- Be aware of shortness of breath or pain in the chest/shoulder or back.
- Be aware if you are a smoker or have COPD (chronic obstructive Airways Disease).

We are trying to raise awareness within our patients about cancer- without trying to worry you.

If caught early, cancer does not always have to be a life threatening experience. Going early, to share your concern with your GP, can add years to your life. We have listed a few possible early symptoms to be aware of:

Be Aware of Cancer

Screening for cancer saves lives

- Prostate cancer Be aware of changes to the flow when passing your urine.

- Ovarian cancer Be aware of any swelling of your abdomen and/or a change in your bowel habit.

Look out for your invitation request to provide a stool sample for testing.

- Be aware of any change in your bottom.
- Be aware of any bleeding from your

available for those aged 60-74
Bowel cancer - Bowel screening is

Look out for your invitation to attend for mammography screening.

- Be aware of any changes to your breasts or armpits.
- Be aware of any lumps or nipple discharge.

available for those over aged 50
Breast cancer - Breast screening is

Skin: malignant melanoma

- Be aware of any changes in your skin that do not resolve.
- Be aware of any change in your moles-itching/bleeding/ getting bigger.

These are just a few examples of some possible symptoms that we would investigate to exclude cancer- if you have access to a computer there are more details on the following website:

www.beclearoncancer.co.uk